

This change would threaten the very heart of our democracy by putting media control in the hands of a few powerful elites. This is how China and the Eastern Bloc nations controlled people's access to information for years.